LAST MEETING:

The Exchange Club of North Jackson met for their regular meeting at Western Sizzlin on Tuesday, September 2, at Western Sizzlin. Angela Butler, president, asked Ralph Brown to give the invocation, and she led us in the pledge to our flag. Everyone then enjoyed their meal.

Angela thanked everyone for helping with the barbecue last month. Susan and George Bragg for the decorating, Diane's delicious pork, and desserts brought by Exchangites, Janie Thacker for helping with everything—a good time was had by all.

Birthdays for September were mentioned—Janie, James, Martin, and Ken; there are no anniversaries in the month. Angela asked Al Dickens to tell Emily that we miss her at the meetings. Also, Maxine Sullivan is doing all right at home; Ken said, with someone there to help out.

Sign-up sheets were passed around for help with parking at the circus this week and for wrestling coming up the next week at the Mississippi Coliseum. Circus dates will be adjusted because of evacuees from Hurricane Gustav taking refuge in the Coliseum this week.

Angela said the club has heard from French Camp and, also, from Gateway Rescue Mission. Jack Thacker, James Gould, and Ken Sullivan have met with Junior League members to learn of their plans for Mistletoe Marketplace in November.

Ralph Brown and Angela Butler will be visiting and working with University Christian School to enlist students for the Exchange Youth of the Year essay competition. This is an excellent scholarship opportunity for a young person locally, and the national award is $10,000.00.

The Mississippi State Fair is coming soon, October 1 – 12, 2008, the Richland Exchange Club mans a gate and receives a percentage of their collections, so check that out if you go to the Fair.

Angela reminded members to check out George Bragg's Shutterfly site for club pictures! She reminded us to work on membership. We dismissed with our motto, "Unity for Service."

During the meetings in September, members are reminded to bring baby items, especially safety items, to distribute to the Family Support Center to help the families there. Some items you might consider are outlet plugs, cabinet locks, safety cups and utensils, safety thermometers, etc.

How to Childproof Your Home

Learning to crawl isn't just an important developmental milestone; it marks the dawn of the childproofing era for parents/grandparents. In a heartbeat, your sweet, sedentary infant transforms into curious explorer. Your home — once your child's safe haven — is now a minefield of hidden hazards.

That's why childproofing is so important. Each year, about 2,500,000 children are accidentally injured or killed by hazards in their homes. In fact, unintentional injury remains the leading cause of death for kids under 14. While there is no replacement for constant supervision, proactive childproofing can prevent many accidents.

But don't worry...childproofing doesn't have to be overwhelming! View your own home from your child's perspective: crawl through the house on hands and knees in search of tempting, eye-level dangers. You may be surprised by what you find.
